GCS Board Considers Personnel, Budget, PCI

By David Reznikoff

For a period of four and a half hours the directors of Greenbelt Consumer Services discussed, questioned, and voted their way through a lengthy agenda at their regular meeting last Friday in the Takoma Park Store.

Consideration of the GCS contribution to the Greenbelt Volunteer Rescue Squad resulted in a vote to continue their present donation of thirty dollars credit per month.

Meat Department Unionized

General manager Sam Ashelman answered questions on his manager's report which was released to board members only, and therefore unavailable to this reporter. Ashelman announced a union agreement reached between management and all employees of the meat departments. The contract signed with the union is essentially the same as that of the grocery clerks and the meat clerks of the major dealers in this area. Ashelman disclosed efforts to bring together the management and labor of the Excelsior Dairy, from which the Co-op has been able to buy milk cheaper, a saving passed on to consumers. He spoke further of the advantages of purchasing cheaper products, even if non-union, in order to meet competition and sell at lower prices to our customers.

Among items discussed was the gas station next to the Takoma Park Co-op, scheduled to open in November, for which Ashelman has contacted Rupe of Southern States on the possibility of working with GCS. One thousand dollars was voted for ice-making equipment for store No. 3, after general board discussion.

Pool Concession

In reference to the swimming pool concession, one board member suggested it be given to a local organization such as the Boys' Club. The loss of $100 this operation sustained during August was explained as due to the weather. The board decided to retain it, however, "in order to maintain community standards."

A communication from a leading drug manufacturer, telling GCS that they were in violation of the Fair Trade Act, was also disclosed in the manager's report. GCS has to comply with this request even though it raises the price in order to keep the product on the shelf.

Takoma Stock Purchases

In answer to a question by Morris Solomon, it was learned that less than $50,000 capital stock has been sold to the people living in the area which is serviced by the Takoma Park store and that approximately $250,000 has already been invested in the Takoma stores.

At this point Bierwagen called on Greenbelt's three foreign guests, who individually and collectively thanked the board, the members of GCS, and the people of Greenbelt for their "wonderful stay."

After announcement of the proposed budget, to which this reporter did not have access, for the next three months, Solomon asked that the drug, tobacco, and luncheonette figures be given separately in order that each operation could be studied on its own. Ashelman complied with a breakdown; sales were running ahead of a year ago by $5,000, during the last three weeks, although the gross margins were running lower.

The membership meeting Planning Committee reported itself willing to go so far as to give free monthly passes to the theater in order to get members to attend. This idea was returned to the committee for further consideration.

What Goes On

Friday and Saturday, September 19 and 20 - Drop Inn opens.
Friday, September 19 - Jewish Holy Days begin.
Tuesday, September 23 - 8:30 p.m., Center PTA, social room. Introduction of new teachers; speech, music.
Wednesday, October 1 - Co-op Quarterly Meeting, Greenbelt theater.

Beroza Isolates New Insecticides

According to this week's national press, Dr. Morton Beroza, 17-C Ridge, a chemist working for the Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, has reported his successful attempt to isolate four insect-killing substances of exceptional potency from the roots of a Chinese vine being grown experimentally in the United States.

In a paper delivered at the current American Chemical Society's 122nd national meeting at Atlantic City, Dr. Beroza described the new insecticides as stomach poisons to insects which feed on fruits and vegetables, and apparently harmless to man and other warmblooded animals. Furthermore, Beroza said, insects do not build up resistance to these poisons as they have been doing against DDT and other synthetic insecticides. The four distinct alkaloids, he stated, are extracted from the bark of the roots of the vine and their chemical structure is considered too complex for chemical duplication. The possibility is being considered, however, of growing the vines in this country for commercial production of their insect-killing substances.

Tripterygium wilfordii hook, the Chinese Thunder Vine, was first brought to this country in 1936, but Dr. Beroza's project did not start until nine years later.

In tests so far conducted on American insects, he reported, the root extractions have proved effective against the larvae of the codling moth, which attacks apples; the European corn-borer; imported cabbage worms and others. The insects eating sprayed food soon sicken and spit up their meals, lose all further appetite, grow sicker and die.

The board is doing its utmost to get members to take an active part in GCS, and feels gravely the lack of membership support at the quarterly meetings.

Personnel Survey

On the recommendation of the general manager, the board three months ago authorized a personnel survey. Mrs. Hildeen, who proposed the survey, was present to explain and answer questions on what is to be gained by an active personnel program. Solomon, Zubkoff, Schwimmer and Arntz felt that the survey was not specific enough and after much discussion the board voted to hire Mrs. Hildeen on a part-time basis.

Frank Lewis, new board member from Takoma Park, was elected to both the executive and personnel committees.

Solomon, Bierwagen, Davidsen, Ashelman and Schwimmer were elected delegates to the Potomac Cooperative, Inc. meeting to be held in the Center school auditorium at 11 a.m., September 28. PCI is the centralized buying organization of which GCS is the major stock holder.

Decorated By Members, Drop-Inn Opens Friday With Brand New Rules

By Aimee Slye

The Drop-Inn will open its doors for the coming season this week, Friday and Saturday nights, September 19 and 20. The building has been newly-decorated by members of the Youth Center under the capable leadership of their director, Mrs. Lucy Wolfe. Valuable assistance was also rendered by Donald Wolfe, recreation director, and other friends of the Center who made the new curtains, sanded the floor and waxed it, installed new equipment and made necessary repairs. The Drop-Inn has been decorated in two shades of green, for the walls, with a very pale green for the ceiling; the new draperies have a green background with a formalized design in stripes of deep red, grey and touches of yellow.

The Drop-Inn's membership is open to any teen-ager residing in Greenbelt at a fee of $1; teen agers residing in the area may become members for a fee of $2. Admittance will be by membership only with a 10c fee provided for those who forget their cards but who identify themselves as members. Greenbelt members may bring one guest for a fee of 10c; area members may have guests after consulting the director. These simple rules have been formulated to give the management of the Youth Center some idea of how many people to plan for; to protect the members from the nuisance of transients who have no real interest in the Drop-Inn, and to promote a greater interest on the part of the members of the Youth Center in protecting their investment of time, energy and money in the Drop-Inn.

Qualified local citizens may register to vote on Friday, September 19; Tuesday, September 23; and Tuesday, September 30, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Greenbelt fire house. Would-registrants must have lived in Maryland one (1) year and in the congressional district six (6) months before election day, November 4.

All Tastes Suited At Lake Barbecue

Plans for a wide variety of events designed to entertain young and old, highbrow and lowbrow, active and sedentary have been developed by the Program Committee for the Co-op Barbecue, headed by Jean Putnam. The barbecue, sponsored by the Potomac Cooperative Federation for all area cooperators and their families, will be held Sunday, September 28, at 1:30 p.m. at Greenbelt Lake.

For the youngsters of the family, pony rides will be the drawing card of the day, although other entertainment will also be provided for the small fry. The area to the left of the pavilion will be set aside for these facilities. To the right of the pavilion softball and horse-shoes will be played. Plans are to have these activities underway by 3 p.m. A television set will be on hand for those who prefer to take their sports passively and watch the football game. To the far left of the pavilion "away from the madding crowd," the classic music lovers will find a quiet retreat in "Symphony Hall," where they may spend as much time as they wish between 3 and 6 p.m. listening to records.

Those more disposed to strenuous activity will have an opportunity to compete for prizes in potato races, sack races, egg races, etc. in the area directly in front of the pavilion on the lake side. Boating will be another feature. Yom Kippur will begin with the lovely and traditional Kol Nidre service on Sunday evening, September 28, in the Community Church basement, and will inaugurate a 24-hour period of prayers and fasting.

The Jewish Community Center of Greenbelt wishes to take this opportunity to wish their friends and neighbors a Happy New Year.

The schedule of services is as follows:

Fri. evening - 8:30 p.m., Sermon, Introduction

Sat. morning - 9 a.m., Sermon - Back to Tradition

Sun. morning - 9 a.m., Sermon - Act For the Sake of Our Children

Mrs. Brady Will Plan Dance

Mrs. Mary O'Neill, prefect of St. Hugh's Sodality, has appointed Mrs. Catherine Brady general chairman for the Annual Hallowe'en Program Dance, which is being sponsored by St. Hugh's Sodality for the Building Fund. A date late in October will be announced later. Howard Devron's orchestra has been selected to supply the music.

Greenbelt Promised Entrance To Fairway

There will be an entrance to the new Baltimore Freeway from Greenbelt, it was disclosed by an official of the Public Roads Administration this week. Contrary to city council opinion expressed last week and reported in the Cooperator, a "diamond" entranceway will be provided for Greenbelt motorists wishing to use the new Freeway.

In fact, the official disclosed, entrances (or interchanges) will be built about every mile on the road. The "diamond" patterns being built are designed to permit the construction of "cloverleafs" if the need arises, he stated.

At present, work is proceeding on an overpass of the Glenn Dale road at the Schrom airport. The entrance will be built near there. Other access points are at Landover road, Defense highway, Riverdale; none at Beltsville.

Message To Greenbelt From E. Africa

By Gikonyo wa Kiano

The five weeks that I have spent in Greenbelt can hardly be described as typical. When I came to Greenbelt, at the recommendation of the Department of Agriculture, I had one purpose in mind: to see a successful U. S. Consumer Cooperative in operation and to find out what makes it tick. During the five weeks I have been here I have found myself devoting my mental energy not only to the affairs of GCS but also the aspects of community government, people's voluntary organizations for their own enjoyment and welfare, children's safety measures, and even housekeeping problems! My constant sigh has become: "so much to learn, so little time to learn it in".

My interests in the diverse activities of Greenbelt are accounted for by the realization that human problems and propensities world over are basically similar. The problems of our African communities differ from those of Greenbelt in magnitude, not in kind. Those who have been made to believe that the chief characteristics of Africa are jungles, intense heat, wild animals, and "primitive tribalism", let me put them straight. Modern Africa is characterized by a burning desire for more and more education, maximum utilization of our resources and manpower which we have in plenty, modernization of our social fabric without losing the sense of unity and community spirit that have been the chief features of our "tribal" societies, and a yearning for freedom from our currently colonial status.

Education

Education designed to meet our problems is one of our chief concern. I am pleasantly awed by the presence of numerous high schools and colleges and vocational as well as professional institutions in American cities and states. In East Africa we have only one college (student body about 300) to meet the higher education needs for Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Zanzibar, and Nyasaland! There still are not any free elementary or secondary schools. Tuition is low, statistically speaking, but many a family finds it much of a financial burden. To make matters still harder, there are hardly no African financial "angels" to endow the African institutions of learning that are beginning to mushroom all over the country. However, the spirit of self-help is gradually surmounting all these educational obstacles through community work, voluntary labor for African cooperative projects, and mass support for students desirous of studying abroad for future leadership. I am one of those who have severally received community support when my education proved too much of a financial burden to my family.

Economics

In the field of economics we are faced with the following problems: (i) Lack of trained personnel to man our business enterprises, and the absence of economically feasible means of training an adequate number of such personnel. (ii) Lack of adequate information that would give hints regarding improvements in labor efficiency, marketing, labor-saving devices, and so forth. (iii) Low productivity of our farmers because of their economic inability to purchase machinery. (iv) Overpopulation caused by the alienation of portions of lands belonging to the Africans for the exclusive use by Europeans only. Kenya is the chief victim of his land alienation problem. (v) Lack of contact with world markets and consequently being at the mercy of foreign middlemen and their exploitative practices. (vi) Lack of sources for credit to finance our economic self-help project. (vii) Political domination by a foreign people who do not understand our feelings and our problems the way we do and who tend to believe, as many other people do even in the United States, that a Negro person, and the African in particular, regardless of his educational standard, is not capable of assuming responsible roles in matters of government and economics—evidences to the contrary notwithstanding!

Solutions

I, with many others like me in Africa, am planning to meet these problems with all the sagacity, will-power, and cooperative efforts that we can mobilize. At Greenbelt I have had the privilege of observing how the community has built itself a successful consumer-owned business. And it is to the credit of you, the people of Greenbelt, that you have accomplished this, and NOT through the incentive of profit-making! Congratulations. I do not intend to reproduce in Africa everything I have learned in Greenbelt. This would not be wise or feasible. I intend to use the knowledge I have gained here by teaching and organizing African credit unions, farmers' and consumer cooperatives, as well as cooperative marketing agencies. The business "know-how" that I hope I have absorbed from the GCS will be of great use in this task.

Some weeks ago, a couple from Ohio on their way to Ethiopia where the husband has gotten a teaching job came to see me here in Greenbelt. Not knowing exactly where the apartment I lived in was, they asked someone whether she knew where "the African student visiting Greenbelt stayed". The Greenbelter helpfully answered "No, he would not be living here. This is a segregated community!" When I was told of this incident, it dawned on me that my staying in a Greenbelt apartment, being of the Negro race, was an exception not the rule! Am I to believe that an appreciable segment of Greenbelt population is yet to be convinced that people of the Negro race are like anybody else? That the color of their skin has nothing to do with their personal abilities, behavior patterns or responsible citizenship? I hope only a few people in Greenbelt are still in that stage. But no matter how few they are, one direct or indirect act of discrimination on account of race or religion is one act too many

By Morris J. Solomon
How You Can Protect Yourself
Against Lemons

In general the larger company is in a better position to test new designs and where defects in engineering do slip through, to stand the cost of making good. This does not mean that a large company will necessarily stand behind its product. If you have a just complaint, and persist even to the point of bringing it to the attention of the president of the company you have a much better chance of getting satisfaction.

Consumers Union often warns its readers to steer clear of a new engineering feature that has not stood the test of time. Quite often by consulting a Consumers Union rating, you can avoid getting stuck. Unfortunately Consumers Union has a very limited capacity for spotting manufacturing lemons and sometimes even passes up engineering lemons.

The danger of getting a lemon makes it necessary to consider things in addition to price. They are

1. What guarantee does the manufacturer give? An example of this is the Sears Kenmore automatic washing machine and the Whirlpool machine. The two are the same and are sold at about the same price (if you get a 25 percent discount on the Whirlpool).

The Whirlpool transmission mechanism is guaranteed for five years, the Sears for one year. Clearly the Whirlpool is a better buy.

2. Who is the manufacturer? A relatively unknown outfit that is small is a bad risk. In any case, if you do get stuck, assuming you have not misused the product, carry your case as far up the line as necessary.

3. Check with neighbors or friend who has bought the product. Ask the man who owns one, is pretty good advice

4. Who is the seller? In general, department stores go to great lengths to satisfy their customers. (Usually appliances can be obtained cheaper at discount houses.) In the case of cars, it is well to consider the reputation of the dealer. Avoid the spectacular cut-rate sales of appliances by "sharp operators." They are often cut-rate because they are unsatisfactory models.

Remember a lemon, even if fresh from a packing case, is a sour buy at any price.

Letters To

The Editor

ON LOYALTY CLAUSE

(Ed. note - Despite its length we have accepted the following letter as a sincere statement on a subject too little aired in this way.)

I sincerely hope that the Public Housing Administration will reconsider its requirement that GVHC insert a "loyalty" provision into its by-laws. The loyalty program is a sinister invasion of the freedom of thought for which our Nation has been noted; its victims are far more often those of independent judgment than those of malicious intent. It makes neighbor suspicious of neighbor, and it hampers intelligent consideration of vital local, national and world problems. Rather than combatting totalitarian communism, it invokes the fears - of loss of position, of reputation, of home - which are characteristic of existence under totalitarian rule.

Saturday, Sept. 27 - Plant and Perennial Sale at the Center from 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 28 - Promotion and Rally Day - all church school classes will meet at 10 o'clock. At 11, Recognition and Installation of teachers of church school.

The insertion of the "loyalty" provision in the GVHC by-laws would mean that a misguided neighbor could jeopardize a person's home. In colonial days a dozen people, including her own children, testified that Martha Carrier was a witch, and that they, now repenting, had attended witch meetings and corted with the devil with her. People like those who hanged her live today, and we are fools if we give them power over us.

Since GVHC has no way of knowing whether a person is or is not loyal, or to what, it proposes to require a statement or oath by members or prospective members - in other words, it will depend on self-incrimination. There are a number of aspects of this procedure which should receive our careful consideration.

1. Taking a loyalty oath is no proof of loyalty. A person who sinks to disloyalty will certainly not be above dishonesty. Communists, in particular, believing that "the end justifies the means," would surely have no hesitancy in signing such a statement.

2. Refusal to take a loyalty oath is no proof of disloyalty. Since communists will not hesitate to take a loyalty oath, the only persons who will be ferreted out are those who consider the loyalty program a threat to traditional American freedoms. For them it may well be subversion to sign such an oath, if they believe that in so doing they are participating in subverting the basic freedoms that have distinguished the United States from totalitarian nations. Should they be penalized for seeking to preserve freedom?

3. Acceptance of the attorney general's list denies the American principle that persons are deemed innocent until proved guilty. The accused organizations were listed by the attorney general without having an opportunity to answer the charge made against them, or even to know who made the charge and on what basis. Thus the organizations, and the individuals belonging to them, have been adjudged guilty without the opportunity for a court trial or even a hearing before the accusing agency. It has not been proved in open court that the organizations on the list are subversive.

4. Use of the list involves the pernicious doctrine of guilt by association. Membership in an association is no proof that one accepts all the views of the association; and membership in a "subversive" organization is no proof of subversion. Few Democrats or Republicans accept the entire platform of their respective parties; even those elected on the basis of those platforms have notoriously failed to support major planks of the platforms - witness FEPC, national health insurance, the eternal promise to reduce taxes. A member of an organization advocating overthrow of the Government by force (which apparently is what the word "subversion" has come to mean in recent years) does not necessarily support that particular and clearly futile objective of the organization. He may feel that many of the other aims of the organization are constructive, and that in time and with changes in

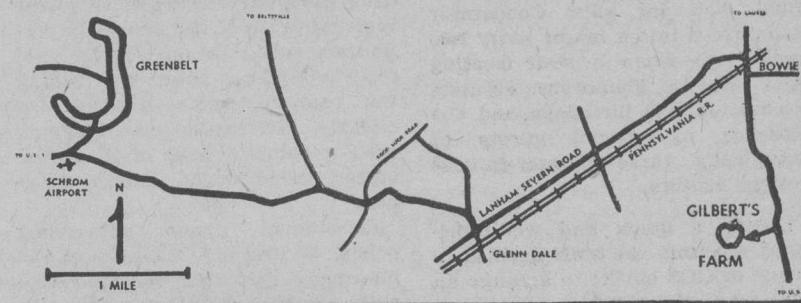

5. What is loyalty? If people may lose their jobs and their homes because of "disloyalty," one wonders how far the definition of the term may eventually be extended. Is the Government employee who accepts a gift from a contractor disloyal? Or the business man who makes the gift? Or the Government employee who reads the newspaper or chit-chats on Government time? Or the administrator who hires a friend or a protege of a Congressman in preference to a better qualified candidate?

The loyalty program is a futile and negative attempt to meet a problem which this country has faced more bravely and more effectively.

leadership the unsound objective profit economy. Perhaps it is a belief - in my opinion, a mistaken one - that communism will bring a better world. In either case, I can't see why his views would make him an unsuitable neighbor. Furthermore, we can't fight communism by burying our heads in the sand. It is only by hearing the reasons why communists are communists that we can decide intelligently why we shouldn't be. If the Government must go into making determinations on the basis of political views, therefore, it would seem to me more sensible if it insisted that we should have at least a few communists in Greenbelt. It is interesting to note in this connection that in negotiating the lease for the Greenbelt stores, the Government inserted a clause that GCS in hiring employees could not discriminate on the basis of political affiliation. That, it seems to me, was a much healthier attitude.

Sincerely yours,

Staff Throws Party Party Throws Staff

The pot-luck fun which is the usual dish for your Cooperator staff turned into a major party two weeks ago when a staff meeting grew into a glamorous evening, celebrating two birthdays and the presence as special guests of Greenbelt's three by-now-famous foreign visitors.

During a quick and well-lubricated meeting, the staff decided to invest in GOS stock; to arrange an evening at the theatre; and to put out the best and biggest 15th anniversary issue possible at Christmas time.

Festivities included food and group singing, the first made easy by two man-size cans of chips and pretzels; and the second given extra verve by the impromptu piano accompaniments of a staff member's spouse. Attendance was above par; even our far-flung ramblers, recently returned from France and Italy, made it in time, with stories to tell (and a copy of a certain Paris hot spot revue program—with pictures).

Everyone joined in the congratulations to Lydalu Palmer and Ellie Ritchie, a courtesy which included eating their individually-styled birthday cakes. Two were just enough to go around.

VA Advises GI's On Tuition Delay

Veterans with service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean campaign, who are planning to go to school under the Korean GI Bill were advised today by the Veterans Administration's Washington Regional Office to take along enough money of their own to tide them over for about two months.

The reason, according to Rome Leandri, regional office educational chief, "is that under the law, GI education and training allowances cannot be paid until sometime after a veteran actually completes each month of training. Therefore, one month of the delay will be caused by the veteran completing his initial month of training."

The law also requires that both the veteran and his school or training establishment submit a certification to VA—after the end of the month—to the effect that the veteran actually was enrolled in training during that period.

This, too, takes time, so the VA Regional Office is urging schools and establishments to get the certifications in as quickly as possible after the end of the month to keep the time at a minimum.

Finally, after VA receives the certifications, it must compute how much GI allowance each veteran is entitled to, and must mail out the payments. This process, VA said, normally will be kept down to 20 days from the date the certification is received.

Because of all these factors, post-Korea veterans would be wise to allow for two months before they can expect a check from the government, VA said. Afterwards, their checks will come regularly each month, so long as they remain in training and their certifications are in order.

A veteran who starts GI training after the 20th of a month will have to wait several days longer for his initial payment, VA pointed out. His certification cannot be processed until after he has completed his first full month of training. Payments for both periods—the complete month and the few days of the preceding month—will be included in his first check.

The allowances for veterans training full-time in schools and colleges under the new Korean GI Bill are $110 for those without dependents; $135 for those with one dependent, and $160 for those with more than one dependent. Allowances for part-time training, on-the-job training and institutional on-farm training, are somewhat lower.

Competition Complains Co-op Prices Too Low

Owners of nearby competing drug stores have complained to the regional office of the second largest pharmaceutical manufacturer that the Co-op Drug Store was selling the manufacturer's product too cheaply. Reference was made to the September 6 issue of the Cooperator, advertising insulin products.

Questioned about advertising policy, Si Pearson, manager of the pharmacy, said that weekend specials are picked to offer the consumer good drug values at competitive prices. "However," he continued, "with the enactment of a new Fair Trade bill (the last one nullified by a Supreme Court Decision in 1951) this policy may become more difficult to follow. During the non-fair trade era merchants could set their own prices. Now these are arbitrarily set for him, and all merchants in fair trade areas must comply."

With a return to "fair trade" a request to revise prices upward has already come from the insulin manufacturer mentioned above. More are expected to follow, which may mean a gradual reduction in the number of brand name items regularly featured in weekend specials. The Co-op's answer, according to Manager Pearson, is to extend the list of items packed under the co-op label, a number of which will be available shortly, which are free of fair trade restrictions.

Parents Must Help Teach Safety Rules

With the opening of school this month, a well-known character reappears on the American scene. He is a small, sturdy boy wearing a white armband and Sam Browne belt who fills the honorable post of traffic monitor or junior policeman for his school. Many a motorist watching him as he holds back a restless crowd of youngsters at the curb smiles with amusement and says "Isn't he cute?"

As long as the motorist watches the young man's actions carefully and obeys his signals, there's no harm in thinking he's cute. He is an important factor in preserving the lives of our children who are trooping back to school these days. Along with his appearance on the scene, bright yellow signs blossom out; caution, stop signs, and speed limits that mean what they say. And, of course, at the crossing in front of the school there is the policeman who is every child's friend and protector.

Yet with all these efforts to guard the safety of our children, hundreds will be killed or permanently injured in traffic accidents during this school year. And statistics show that most accidents to young children are the result of adult carelessness. This disgrace to America can be wiped out. Every adult can do something about it.

If you have school age children: reinforce the school's safety teachings with teaching of your own. Know that your child understands the dangers of traffic before he starts out that first day of school. Know that he stops and looks at every crossing, however quiet, between your home and the school or the place where he is picked up by the school bus. If you are not perfectly confident, go with him yourself or put him in the care of a responsible older child. Know that he obeys the instructions of the traffic monitors as well as those of the "real" policeman.

Don't allow older children to drive or ride in unsafe "jalopies." If your youngsters ride bicycles, be sure they know and follow the rules of the road.

The GI allowances are paid directly to veterans, and are the only payments made under the new Korean GI Bill. They are for the purpose of assisting veterans in meeting the costs of their training. Out of this allowance, the veteran must pay all costs including tuition, books, supplies and living expenses.

Little League Stars Lose To Midgets

By Bill Moore

The Greenbelt Little League All-Stars had the audacity to appear on the same diamond with Caldwell Baker's Greenbelt Boys' Club Midgets Sunday and paid for their indiscretion with a 19 to 11 lacing. Some two hundred hardy people attended the affair in 95 degree shadeless temperature. They had their choice of football, tennis, basketball or baseball—all within a hundred yards on Braden Memorial Field's broad expanse. Most attention was directed at our small fry diamond greats.

Mel Taylor, by having been winning manager in regular Little League play, directed the All-Stars, assisted actively by Jim Ewing and George Preston. He managed in the nine innings to play every boy on his squad. Barry Petroff, star pitcher for the Redbirds, was starting hurler for the Stars and our observation was that he tried too hard and his control suffered. He was charged with the loss. Freddie Slaugh, Home-Run King of the Little League, followed Petroff and when he ran into trouble he retired in favor of Don McDonald, star chucker for the pennant winning College Park Legion team. Ronnie Newman of the Greenbelt Bowling Alley team was the final hurler. Manager Baker employed two pitchers, Scooter Taylor and Lefty Bobby Kelly, the former gaining credit for the victory.

Bobby McGlothlin, right fielder of the Midgets, was the game's outstanding batter with four singles and a triple in six tries! Scooter Taylor was right in there with five singles in 6 AB's. Last year's Most Valuable Player of the Little League, Gary "Butch" Brown, batted out a single, triple and home-run in six attempts.

The Little League All-Stars had some prolific hitters too. Lew Cas-

It was beginning to seem that the Little Leaguers were in over their head, trailing by 19-2 going into the ninth inning. They salvaged some respect by banging away for 9 runs in the last stanza off Lefty Kelly. It must be said here that young Kelly had some miserable backing from his infield mates in this inning.

Fielding gem of the day, other than the afore-mentioned hustling of Curtis Barker, was the stab of a hot line drive off the bat of catcher Dale White by first sacker Donnie Estep early in the game.

Notes: The second annual Greenbelt Little League Baseball banquet will be held in the Community Church basement the evening of September 24. Former big leaguer Bill Werber from neighboring Berwyn will be principal speaker. Parents of Little Leaguers wishing to attend should purchase their tickets early so the banquet committee can do its job.

All Little Leaguers are requested to turn in to their respective managers all of their baseball uniforms and stockings. The caps are not to be turned in.

My Daze

On the verge of becoming a biped, baby still prefers to crawl instead, happily ignoring vain parents' pleas to stand alone up off his knees. As though in all his laughing chatter, he chides and asks, "What does it matter if I start walking early or late, you know I develop at my OWN rate."

Throwing in the towel and accepting the inevitable, we're planning to buy a television set. Ostensibly to keep the children from pestering kind neighbors so much, it is mainly in the "we might as well" spirit that we do this. The hope is that we can learn to live sensibly with this fearful intruder.

Our anxiety on this score may be unwarranted. When I was a small girl years ago my folks bought our first radio, and I immediately devoted myself to the "Little Orphan Annie" serial sponsored by Ovaltine. My mother was never persuaded to buy the product (she didn't think I needed it), but she was worried by my addiction to that type of program. Later came the soap operas, then mystery stories like the G. Washington coffee Sherlock Holmes series, also horror stories like The Witch's Tale (the witch's cackle "Douse the fire and gaze into embers . . ." was very awesome, more effective than the creaking door of today's Inner Sanctum, or am I imagining it?), weekly dramas as the First Nighter and True Story, in an endless succession of unselected listening fare. The extent of my mother and father's forbearance is only now apparent to me. In view of what I inflicted on my parents, I'm prepared to accept Howdy Doody, Captain Video and the like without a murmur.

Guppies are supposed to be easy to raise, but unfortunately these tropical fish aren't nearly as hardy as the snails. Snails are what we've really got.

Forget-Me-Not Week

Starts DAV Fund Drive

September 20 through September 27 is FORGET-ME-NOT Week. Members of the Disabled American Veterans and the Majorettes of Greenbelt, as volunteer workers representing the Hyattsville Memorial Chapter No. 23, covering the area from Hyattsville to Laurel, will sell blue flowers of remembrance in behalf of the war-time handicapped. With the slogan "Now is the Time When Gratitude Means Something" the workers will raise funds to be used during the coming year on behalf of disabled veterans and their dependents, many of whom live in Greenbelt. "Every cent contributed in the campaign will be used right in welfare work in this area," said Commander John W. Gilliam. The
